cruelty of God, that life is nothing more than chaotic randomness, yet the passage of time reminds us that in the light of eternity we are all passing away in short order and we will follow those who have died very soon; even within just a few moments later when measured on the scale of eternal time. The accounts documented in this book are from different people at different times and in different places. They are all sincere; they all had a story to tell and they attempted to share their experience to the best of their ability. They each have unique aspects even though they share some similarities. Some of these stories will likely resonate and encourage and inspire you. Some may be difficult to relate to or to understand; if that is the case,

I would suggest you skip that particular story for the time being and move on to the next one. Perhaps the afterlife is revealed to us in such a way that allows each of us to understand and comprehend the process of passing in a way that we can accept. The uniqueness of each experience may be in part due to the individual; their ability to take in the awesomeness of such an event may be reflected in their memory of the event. In any case, these incidents are presented to the reader in the hopes that they will encourage and inspire; my hope is that you will find, as I did, a common theme within these experiences which seem to reflect the powerful love of God towards humanity, towards each one of us.

miraculous survival. What they weren't expecting, though, was the story that emerged in the months that followed—a story as beautiful as it was extraordinary, detailing their little boy's trip to heaven and back. Colton, not yet four years old, told his parents he left his body during the surgery – and authenticated that claim by describing exactly what his parents were doing in another part of the hospital while he was being operated on. He talked of visiting heaven and relayed stories told to him by people he met there whom he had never met in life, sharing events that happened even before he was born. He also astonished his parents with descriptions and obscure details about heaven that matched the Bible exactly, though he had not yet learned to read. With disarming innocence and the plainspoken boldness of a child, Colton tells of meeting long-departed family members. He describes Jesus, the angels, how “ really, really big ” God is, and how much God loves us. Retold by his father, but using Colton ’ s uniquely simple words, Heaven Is for Real offers a glimpse of the world that awaits us, where as Colton says, “ Nobody is old and nobody wears glasses. ” Heaven Is for Real will forever change the way you think of eternity, offering the chance to see, and believe, like a child. Describes Colton's experiences in Heaven, where he learned what Heaven looks like, who lives there, and how one can get to live there if they love Jesus.

There's so much more to the story. Todd and Sonja Burpo's almost-four-year-old son Colton made an unforgettable trip to heaven and back during the darkest, most-stressed-out days of their lives. Times were tough, money was scarce and the bills, frustrations, and fears were piled high. The story of Colton's visit to heaven changed their lives and the book they wrote about it, Heaven Is for Real, gave new hope to millions of readers. In Heaven Changes
